Volunteers Needed. The city of Glendale is organizing a volunteer project for National Family Volunteer Day on Saturday, November 21, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Volunteers are needed to help keep Skunk Creek Linear Park clean by picking up trash. Skunk Creek is a great park for walking, horseback riding and biking. It is roughly 3-1/2 miles of trails that connect to the Thunderbird Paseo Park for additional trails. The trail system runs along Skunk Creek, a natural creek bed, so you're likely to see some desert creatures along the way. This day of service, held annually the Saturday before Thanksgiving, is designed to demonstrate the power of families who choose to volunteer together to support the communities in which they live and serve. Volunteering as a family provides quality time for busy families, strengthens communication and bonds, and positively impacts local communities across the nation. Across the country on this day, thousands of families and individuals will be mobilized to participate in a variety of service projects.

The National Family Volunteer Day project is sponsored by Glendale's Community Volunteer Program and the Parks and Recreation Department. Volunteers should meet at 9 a.m., November 21, in the Foothills Recreation & Aquatic Center lobby, 5600 W. Union Hills Drive. To volunteer, contact the Glendale Community Volunteer program at (623) 930-2915 by November 20.

Glendale Wins Best of the West Award. Glendale's Parks & Recreation Department was honored with a Best of the West Award, presented by WESTMARC at the Renaissance Hotel in Glendale on November 5.

The Parks & Recreation Department was recognized for its Grand Canal Linear Park and Trail, an entry in the 'Attractions, Destinations, and Entertainment' category. The Park, located between 75th Avenue and Camelback Road, and State Route 101 and Bethany Home Road, features a bevy of amenities including recreational opportunities, an extensive trail system and playgrounds.

In addition, a pedestrian environment was developed to create safe surroundings for walkers, joggers, bicyclists, and equestrians by promoting accessibility, connectivity and continuity with other regional open spaces. This allowed the city to continue to support adjacent agencies, their trail systems, and the innovative and collaborative approach to assuring the West Valley has updated and safe facilities.

Recreation activities and facilities have an impact on water, air, wildlife, transportation and aesthetics in our community. For example, trails such as the Grand Linear Trail, along with other trails in Glendale, led to Prevention magazine, in association with the American Podiatric Medicine Association, to identify the city of Glendale as the twelfth most "walkable" city in the Nation. This designation gave Glendale the highest ranking of any city in Arizona.

Maricopa County HOME Consortium Survey Online. The public is encouraged to voice their opinions on affordable housing in the community through an online survey on the city's Web site. To access the survey click here then select the link to the "Maricopa County HOME Consortium Survey."

The responses will be used by the city's Community Revitalization Division and the Maricopa County HOME consortium to assist in developing revisions to their five-year consolidated plans, which are documents that guide local officials on the best use for federal funds.

Glendale relies on federal monies to assist in supporting local efforts to develop housing, prevent homelessness and to provide human services. For a complete listing of the social service agencies that receive federal funds from the city, call the Community Revitalization Division at (623) 930-3670.
